

GREAT JUBILEE FOR CARDINAL DRAWS THROUG

Taft and Roosevelt Two of the Chief Speakers.

CHURCH HEAD HONORED

Remarkable Tribute on Anniversary of Elevation.

Fifth Regiment Armory at Baltimore Scene of Great Demonstration—Commemoration of a Life of Good Works Joined In by Men of All Creeds and All Stations—Governor Presides Over Assemblage.

Baltimore, June 6.—Gathered from the four ends of the land, distinguished men of all creeds assembled at the Fifth Regiment Armory this afternoon to participate in the most notable and remarkable tribute ever paid to a churchman in America.

With one mind and with one purpose, this concourse of people who filled the great building came to do honor to James Cardinal Gibbons in commemoration of a life of good works which was crowned to-day by the advent of his fiftieth anniversary as a priest of the church and the twenty-fifth anniversary of his elevation to the cardinalate.

PRaised BY MR. TAFT.
The Chief Executive of the nation himself came to lend the deeds of the venerable and universally loved prelate. With him were the Vice President of the United States, representatives of every branch of the national government, justices of the Supreme Court, and members of the diplomatic corps.

The governor of the State presided over the assemblage, and the mayor of the city took a prominent part in the exercises.

In the mass of faces that filled the extensive auditorium there was no distinction of caste. The poor, the rich, the high, the low, with a unison of feeling paid homage to the quiet, self-possessed man who formed the central figure in the immense gathering, and who with that disquieting humility that distinguished his life and won him the respect and love of his fellow-countrymen received the appreciative demonstration.

Side by side with the higher prelates of his own sect sat the most prominent representatives of nearly every creed. Priests, pastors, rectors, elders, rabbis, and other children of churches of all denominations swelled the throng and joined their voices in praise of the exemplary life of their coworker for the good of mankind. Such a spontaneous demonstration was never before seen on this hemisphere. Probably the world never witnessed a more generous outburst of enthusiasm for one with whose theological principles many of the participants are at variance.

Greetings Come All Day.

Telegrams and special delivery letters from governors of States in the United States and from every member of the Senate and House of Representatives who could not attend the demonstration were received to-day by the cardinal, while from foreign diplomats, archbishops, and bishops all over the world came messages of congratulation. It was a great day in many ways. It brought together for the first time in many months President Taft and former President Roosevelt, and the meeting was so cordial that even the state representatives and Senators who had not been altogether certain of the relations of the two were surprised.

The meeting of the President and Cardinal Gibbons, which occurred later, was also interesting. The churchman expressed his pleasure at Mr. Taft's coming, and the two gentlemen walked arm in arm into the armory.

Of the speeches made, those of the President and Col. Roosevelt, next to that of the cardinal, commanded the greatest attention, and both dealt with religious liberty and toleration. The former President made a decided hit, and was cheered again and again when in the course of his address he said the time would come when there would be Catholic Presidents as well as Protestants, and Jews would be Presidents as well as Gentiles.

Day of Jubilation.

It was a day for jubilation all around, and all of the speeches were complimentary in the highest degree to the cardinal. It was a joyful social event in which American good nature found its best and broadest expression. For three hours over 15,000 men and women and children stood, for there were no seats on the main floor of the armory, listening to the speeches and applauded and not one complaint was heard.

On the speakers' platform were the distinguished visitors and leading citizens of Maryland and of Baltimore. In the main galleries were ladies who went to see, to listen, to applaud. In one of the galleries were distinguished Catholic clergymen. The speakers in the order named were:

Austin L. Crothers, of Maryland, who presided;
President Taft;
Vice President Sherman;
Former President Theodore Roosevelt;
United States Senator Ellis L. Ivins, of New York;
Hon. James Bryce, Ambassador from Great Britain;
Hon. Champ Clark, Speaker of the House of Representatives;
Ex-Speaker Joseph Cannon;
Hon. James S. Preston, mayor of Baltimore;
His eminence, James Cardinal Gibbons.
The decorations within the armory were superb. A taste of brilliant color

Continued on Page 7, Column 2.

LAUGHTER KILLS ARTIST.

Salem, Mass., June 6.—Frank Palma, the well-known artist, died of heart disease to-day in a street car. The attack was brought on by hearty laughter at a story told by a friend who was sitting beside Mr. Palma.

ARREST LEADERS IN CONSPIRACY TO DOWN MADERO

Authorities Search for Members of Cientificos.

POLICE KILL IN RIOT

By HARRY H. DUNN.

Mexico City, June 6.—On the eve of the arrival of Madero to this city wholesale warrants were issued here this afternoon for members of the army and the Cientifico party, alleging their complicity in a plot to overturn Madero.

Aníbal Villavicencio was arrested this afternoon, and warrants were issued for Jesus Rabago, Rosendo Pineda, Ramon Prida, Vinal y Flor, Felipe Ortega, and Andres Garza Galan.

Galan and Pineda are now out of the country, but the secret police are searching for the others to-night. Villavicencio is held incommunicado in prison here. All of the men are leading citizens here, some of them being members of Congress and well-known attorneys.

The arrest and the warrants have caused great excitement, and the police were compelled to fire into a mob gathered on Mariscal street, injuring several and killing three.

The city is in an uproar at 8 o'clock. The crowds are gathering on the main streets in the vicinity of Zocalo. The patrols here are being doubled, and the rurales have been thrown out into the streets as a special guard.

The whole city is decorated to greet Madero. A large force of rebels at Cuernavaca is displaced at not being allowed to meet Madero, and has gathered at Ajacac, eighteen kilometers from this city, and is threatening to enter with or without permission.

The Maderistas charge that the Cientificos are going to spend money lavishly to hire revolutionists and assassins, and that Madero will be killed before the election takes place, so that Reyes or some other candidate of the Cientificos can be elected.

The Maderistas claim that the Cientificos are now flocking to New York to carry out their plans and prepare for hiring revolutionists to down Madero. A parade of more than 50,000 will greet and welcome Madero to the city to-morrow. Grand stands have been built all along the main streets with a seating capacity of more than 100,000 people.

On account of no pay for the rebel army and the lack of food, and denied foraging privileges, the soldiers are rioting to-day at San Luis Potosi, Saltillo, Puebla, Aguila, Chilpancingo, and Cuernavaca. There is rioting going on also in the three suburbs of Xochimilco, Atzacapotzalco, and Tlalpam.

MADERO ABOLISHES LINE OF TROOPS AS GUARDS

Leon, Mexico, June 6.—So far there has been no attempt on the life of Madero, the only outward incident having occurred last night at Aguas Calientes, where the governor had invited the party to supper and had failed to make the necessary arrangements.

Last night the party was met by Manuel Garcia Grandao, brother of the governor of the Federal District, who was sent to ask Madero for suggestions as to his official reception.

According to Garcia Grandao, the plan is to set aside the police and federal military, and to have the student body police the city on the day of Madero's arrival there.

It is hoped that in this way the most striking contrast between Madero and Madero will be effected, as the ex-President invariably lined up 10,000 soldiers.

INHERITS MILLION; NOW IS BANKRUPT

New York, June 6.—George Law Davidson, who has never been in business and never had an occupation, and who in one way or another has disposed of $1,000,000 or more, has inherited to-day filed a petition in the Bankruptcy Court which stated that he had absolutely no assets and owed creditors $5,000.

Davidson originally inherited $100,000 from his grandmother, Mrs. Abby E. Layton, which lasted him a year. His Uncle William Layton then bequeathed him $400,000, which went in two months. Next, his mother died, leaving a trust fund of $300,000, which yielded him $12,000 a year. The $12,000 went in a year, with $10,000 raised on some property and $5,000 borrowed from relatives.

Davidson was married twice. His first wife was Mary Baldwin, of New Jersey. They were divorced within a week. He then wed Miss Lillian L. Hall, of this city. In 1901, when his first wife sued for $100,000 a year, Davidson first entered bankruptcy. His creditors claiming $50,000 at that time. Davidson calmly displayed the testamentary provisions of his deceased relatives, all of which provided that his income was not to be attached by creditors. Then he went his way smiling.

HEIGHT MARK MADE.

Aviator Takes Passenger Nearly a Mile in Air.

Special Cable to The Washington Herald.
Johannesburg, Germany, June 6.—Herr J. Hirth, in the presence of the imperial family, broke the world's altitude flight with a passenger when he soared to a height of 5,110 feet in a Farman biplane. A motive by the name of Schaefer broke the German altitude record, reaching an altitude of 5,110 feet.

HONORED BY MEN OF ALL RANKS AND STATION.

JAMES CARDINAL GIBBONS.

Venerable prelate, who yesterday celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his priesthood and the twenty-fifth anniversary of his elevation to the cardinalate.

TAFT AND ROOSEVELT IN A WARM GREETING

No Time to Delve Into the Intricacies of the National Political Situation.

Baltimore, June 6.—For the third time since President Taft has been in the White House, and for the first time upon a public platform, the President and his predecessor, Col. Roosevelt, met to-day in Baltimore at the Cardinal Gibbons jubilee.

Though the meeting has been heralded for some time and great political significance has been prophesied for it, the President and Col. Roosevelt had only ten minutes' conversation together privately, and it is understood that they did not delve into the intricacies of the national political situation in that time.

President Taft was in the ante-room of the reception hall when Col. Roosevelt entered, accompanied by former Attorney General Bonaparte.

"How do you do, Mr. Taft?" was the greeting of the President to his predecessor. The colonel greeted characteristically.

"Mr. President," he replied, shaking the President's hand vigorously, "I'm glad to see you."

Mr. Roosevelt inquired as to Mrs. Taft's health, and the President replied that he was glad to be able to tell him that Mrs. Taft was much improved.

DYING PASTOR 'PHONES TO WIFE AND BABIES

San Francisco, June 6.—Rev. Cecil Marwick, an Episcopal clergyman, who was injured yesterday in Marin County in an auto accident, and died last night, showed unusual nerve before surgical operation that failed to save his life.

When he was brought to the hospital, and the surgeons told him that there was slender hope of his recovery, as one leg was fractured and he had suffered internal injuries, the wounded man, although in great pain, demanded that a telephone be brought to his bedside.

Then he called up his wife at their home in this city and told the details of the accident, in which four preachers were badly hurt. He then gave her his last instructions about the care and education of his two young children and bade her good-by.

After this he signified he was ready for the operation. He only lived two hours.

When he was brought to the hospital, and the surgeons told him that there was slender hope of his recovery, as one leg was fractured and he had suffered internal injuries, the wounded man, although in great pain, demanded that a telephone be brought to his bedside.

Then he called up his wife at their home in this city and told the details of the accident, in which four preachers were badly hurt. He then gave her his last instructions about the care and education of his two young children and bade her good-by.

LURED TO DEATH BY LOVE LETTERS

Startling Charge in Notorious Case at Denver.

Denver, Colo., June 6.—Affectionate letters from Mrs. Isabella Patterson Flock Springer to St. Louis von Phul, of St. Louis, written before Harold F. Henwood, of New York, shot the aeronaut to death in the fight in the Brown Palace Hotel, ten days ago, are the basis of the divorce suit secretly filed by John W. Springer, multi-millionaire banker and turkman, against her. Springer names both Henwood and von Phul in his suit, charging they together destroyed his home.

Eight of these letters were found in von Phul's room at the hotel after the killing. They were suppressed by the district attorney, while the other was in the hands of the district attorney.

One of them, written from Denver, to von Phul in St. Louis, urged him to come to Denver, saying Henwood was "acting naughty" about him, but that if he would come from St. Louis, she would explain, and Henwood would be sent away. This is believed to be the basis of the accusation made by Joseph A. Murphy, of St. Louis, brother-in-law of the slain man, that the tragedy was the result of a plot to lure von Phul to Denver for assassination.

Found by Accident.

Supt. Magoon, who found the body, stumbled across it by accident as he was making an inspection of the cemetery. He was walking in the southern section, about a half mile from the main entrance, when he caught sight of an object lying in the grass. He passed on at first, not thinking to look again, but hesitated and then turned back.

What he saw for the moment filled him with astonishment.

Lying face down in the grass was the body between two graves. Whether the man was asleep or lying there in grief, Supt. Magoon did not at first know, but as he approached he saw the man did not move.

The right arm was thrown over a grave, resting against the white tombstone, while the other was resting on the grave next to him. The whole attitude of the body seemed as if the man had thrown himself down in a fit of grief. When Supt. Magoon turned the body over he saw the distorted features. His first belief was that foul play had been the cause of death. Beside the body was a box which had contained enough poison, it is said, to have killed three or four persons. The box was nearly empty.

The body was cold. It is thought McLaughlin must have come into the cemetery between 5 o'clock Monday afternoon and early yesterday morning, as none of the guards at the gates remembered having seen the man before.

McLaughlin is described as being about thirty-five years old, light complexion, and weighing about 150 pounds; about five feet, four and a half inches tall. In addition to the three letters in his clothes, a small package of candy was found in one of the pockets. The letters, with the exception of the one to Supt. Magoon, were addressed to relatives in Pennsylvania.

In Mental Distress.

That McLaughlin evidently had been driven by extreme mental distress to resort to suicide in such tragic fashion was evident from the place he chose to commit the deed. The letter to Supt. Magoon stated he wanted to be buried in the cemetery between the bodies of his mother and father.

Back of the words, "I am tired of living," is the secret the officials are attempting to learn. Word was sent to Pennsylvania last night, and it is expected a reply will be received this morning. Until then, the body will remain at the cemetery, where it is being prepared for burial. A certificate of death by suicide was given yesterday afternoon.

TRAGIC DEATH BETWEEN GRAVES AT ARLINGTON

J. A. McLaughlin's Body Found, with Face Down, by Superintendent.

LEFT LETTERS OF INSTRUCTION

Box of White Poisonous Powder Discovered in Grass Near the Body, Which, Probably, Had Lain There Through Night—Arms Over Two Mounds.

Lying face down in the grass that covers the family burying lot, with his left hand placed on his mother's grave and his right arm thrown over the grave of his father, J. A. McLaughlin was found dead at 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Arlington National Cemetery by Supt. Magoon.

Beside the body, which had evidently been there through the night, a box which had contained a white poisonous powder was found in the grass, its contents nearly emptied.

That McLaughlin had suffered much pain in his last moments was evidenced by the distorted features and the position of the body.

LEFT THREE LETTERS.
In the pockets of the dead man were letters addressed to relatives in Pennsylvania, and one addressed to Supt. Magoon, in which McLaughlin had asked that his body be placed between those of his parents in Arlington Cemetery, but expressly requesting that no religious services be conducted over his grave. In another paragraph is a sentence which reads:

"I am tired of living; there is no use in living any longer, and I might as well end all now." The letter directed Supt. Magoon to communicate with a cousin, a woman, who lives in a Pennsylvania city, and who would make arrangements for paying the expenses of his burial.

A search of the man's pocketbook disclosed $2.50 in change, and in the letter to Supt. Magoon, McLaughlin stated he was not a pauper, as he owned considerable real estate and shares in various companies in Virginia.

That McLaughlin was evidently a man of means was indicated by the quality of his clothing and general appearance of the body, which suggested refinement and good living. Outside of the asphyxiation that he was tired of living, no reason was learned as to why he wanted to die. Officials of the cemetery took charge of the body and will hold it until word is received from the cousin to whom McLaughlin referred in his letter. It was said by the Port Myer officials that McLaughlin was a resident of Virginia, although his relatives live in Pennsylvania.

On the tombstone of McLaughlin's father is written the name of First Lieut. J. B. McLaughlin, Pennsylvania Volunteers. The date of his death or the regiment in which he served was not learned, although the burial was recent, it is thought. The number of the lot is 1528.

Found by Accident.
Supt. Magoon, who found the body, stumbled across it by accident as he was making an inspection of the cemetery. He was walking in the southern section, about a half mile from the main entrance, when he caught sight of an object lying in the grass. He passed on at first, not thinking to look again, but hesitated and then turned back.

What he saw for the moment filled him with astonishment.

Lying face down in the grass was the body between two graves. Whether the man was asleep or lying there in grief, Supt. Magoon did not at first know, but as he approached he saw the man did not move.

The right arm was thrown over a grave, resting against the white tombstone, while the other was resting on the grave next to him. The whole attitude of the body seemed as if the man had thrown himself down in a fit of grief. When Supt. Magoon turned the body over he saw the distorted features. His first belief was that foul play had been the cause of death. Beside the body was a box which had contained enough poison, it is said, to have killed three or four persons. The box was nearly empty.

The body was cold. It is thought McLaughlin must have come into the cemetery between 5 o'clock Monday afternoon and early yesterday morning, as none of the guards at the gates remembered having seen the man before.

McLaughlin is described as being about thirty-five years old, light complexion, and weighing about 150 pounds; about five feet, four and a half inches tall. In addition to the three letters in his clothes, a small package of candy was found in one of the pockets. The letters, with the exception of the one to Supt. Magoon, were addressed to relatives in Pennsylvania.

In Mental Distress.

That McLaughlin evidently had been driven by extreme mental distress to resort to suicide in such tragic fashion was evident from the place he chose to commit the deed. The letter to Supt. Magoon stated he wanted to be buried in the cemetery between the bodies of his mother and father.

Back of the words, "I am tired of living," is the secret the officials are attempting to learn. Word was sent to Pennsylvania last night, and it is expected a reply will be received this morning. Until then, the body will remain at the cemetery, where it is being prepared for burial. A certificate of death by suicide was given yesterday afternoon.

WEDDINGS RULED TO BE ILLEGAL

Chicago, June 6.—All marriages performed by William Stacey, justice of the peace, Evanston, in the county building, are illegal under the municipal code adopted December 19, 1906.

Judge Stewart, in the Desplains Street Police Court, made this ruling to-day, after he had personally questioned William Stacey, the ousted head of "Cupid's Parlor," who had been summoned in the case of Joseph Walsh, twenty-five years old, who was arrested, charged with abduction and perjury.

Walsh was married by Stacey to Mary Brenning, fifteen years old, on May 31, and the parents of the girl had Walsh arrested.

It is estimated that 1,500 marriages are affected by the decision. While Stacey was still in court Sheriff Zimmer started plans for the re-marriage of all couples married by Stacey.

It is to be arranged to have all the ceremonies performed in the courthouse free of charge.

HERESY CHARGE MADE

Pittsburg Pastor to Be Tried for New Ideas.

Special to The Washington Herald.

Pittsburg, June 6.—Rev. John H. Dietrich, pastor of St. Mark's Memorial Reformed Church, the wealthiest of that denomination in Pittsburg, will be tried on charges of heresy.

Dr. Dietrich, it was stated to-day, is to stand trial July 19 on charges of long standing. The decision to make him a defendant in the sensational doctrinal dispute was reached at a meeting of the committee appointed by the church to investigate the charges.

Dr. Dietrich has professed himself to represent the newer ideals of progress and advancement and church scriptural doctrine.

AEROPLANE FALL THREATENS KING

Royalty Beneath Cody's Unmanageable Machine.

Special Cable to The Washington Herald.
London, June 6.—King George had a narrow escape from serious injury while witnessing the maneuvers of the aviators at Aldershot to-day.

Capt. Cody, the British-American aviator, had just made two circles of the course in his heavy biplane and had started to perform a loop, when it was about 150 feet when something went wrong with the apparatus, and the machine swooped directly toward the royal party with such speed that there was no time to get out of the way.

Just as the great aircraft was directly over the head of the King, Capt. Cody succeeded in elevating his forward planes and glided over the party, but so close that several hats were blown away by the rush of air caused by the passage of the biplane.

The King seemed undisturbed by the incident, but the aviator was so shaken that he was hardly able to step from the machine after landing.

AMERICAN FLAG BARRED IN PARK

Ottawa, June 6.—American campers in the Algonquin Park will get into trouble if they continue to fly the American flag there.

The Ontario provincial government to-day issued this order:

"Any flag flown or displayed in the park shall be the British flag."

A semi-official statement explaining the order says: "American tourists, at least many who go into the park, do not seem to improve in their manners. The Stars and Stripes is flown frequently in spite of the fact that it is an foreign flag. Not long ago the Hon. Frank Cochrane, when in the park, was treated to such a display."

When he called up his wife at their home in this city and told the details of the accident, in which four preachers were badly hurt. He then gave her his last instructions about the care and education of his two young children and bade her good-by.

After this he signified he was ready for the operation. He only lived two hours.

Women Staff Ballot Box.

Scranton, Pa., June 6.—The discovery that a ballot box had been stuffed created a sensation at the convention of the State organization of the Ladies of the U. S. A. R., which is being held here. The discovery was made after the vote for State president had been cast, and invalidated the election.